FOR 30 YEARS A LAWYER.

The Hon. Gilbert A. Davis of Windsor Gives Banquet.

Woodstock, June 2.—The Hon. Gilbert A. Davis of Windsor gave the members of the Windsor county bar a banquet at the Woodstock Inn last evening in honor of his 30 years as a lawyer.

The committee of arrangements for the banquet consisted of Windsor lawyers who studied in Mr. Davis' office: E. R. Buck, B. E. Cole, E. H. Clark and C. F. (Society of Bethel) and there were remarks by Mr. Davis on recollections of 30 years ago. Judge A. A. Hall of St. Albans spoke for "The Court." Sherman Evans compared the city and country lawyer.

Judge Hugh Henry of Chester recalled the boyhood days of Mr. Davis and himself. State's Attorney E. R. Buck spoke for "The Students" and said that 20 had studied under Mr. Davis and that 17 were now practicing their profession in different parts of the union. Col. J. H. Mims of St. Albans, court reporter, was assigned "The Follies of the Windham County Bar" to which he happily responded.

There was music by a double quartet of lawyers and by the Woodstock orchestra. The guests numbered about 50 and the festivities of the evening were concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Gilbert A. Davis was born in Chester December 13, 1835; attended Chester academy; taught school in New Jersey; studied law in Woodstock; admitted to practice May 28, 1859; located first in Feleville (Reading) practicing there and in Windsor since. He represented Reading in 1873-74, 1874-75, was state senator 1876-77 and state's attorney for Windham county in 1878-79. He has been United States referee in bankruptcy since 1898. Mr. Davis erected a beautiful library building in Reading in 1899, and donated it to that town. He has a wife and two children, the son, Gilbert F. Davis, being his law partner.

PRISONERS OF WAR.

Friendly Poes That Changed Places as Guests and Hosts.

A cheerful incident of the war between the states is told in "Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain." The "Third Ohio, under Straight's command, was en route for Richmond, prisoners of war.

One night they camped, worn, famished, with heavy rain and a cold, near the place where a Confederate regiment, the Fifty-fourth Virginia, was stationed. Many of the southerners strove over to the prison camp to see the sorry show of the poor, suppers Yankee.

They did not stay long. Back to their own camp they hurried and soon returned with bottles of coffee, corn bread, bacon—the best they had and all they had. Presently little fires began to twinkle in the prison camp, and the aroma of coffee rose like a fragrant cloud of thank offering. Union guests and Confederate hosts mingled.

The next morning the prisoners departed.

Now comes a happy sequel which well balances the affair. Later, when the prisoners were exchanged, the Third Ohio was encouraged near Kelly's ferry, on the banks of the Tennessee.

On the day of the surrender of Vicksburg ridge among the prisoners taken were numbered the Fifty-fourth Virginia.

Some of the Third Ohio were on duty at the ferry when the prisoners detached arrived.

"What regiment is that?" they asked. When told they started on the run, shouting as they went:

"The Fifty-fourth Virginia's at the ferry!"

They dashed into their camp with the news. The place was electrified. Tremors of coffee, bacon, sugar, best preserved peaches—everything was turned out and carried double quick to the ferry. The circumstances were the same, with the difference that guests and hosts had exchanged places.

Showing His Mettle.

A man with a bronzed complexion went up to a girl with a silvery voice and had the brass to attempt to kiss her. She resisted and, giving him a steady glance, called loudly for a copper. "One of the finest" quickly arrived on the scene and, with irony in his voice, made the man his prisoner. "Alas," cried the unfortunate, "my happiness is over!"—Yale Record.

A Sure Sign.

A Wilmington woman recently reached the conclusion that the attachment of a certain policeman for her cook must be investigated lest it prove disastrous to domestic discipline.

"Do you think he means business, Mary?" she asked.

"I think so, mum," said Mary. "They begun to complain about my cooking, mum."—Harper's Weekly.

Flower and Tree.

The Brazilian coconut palm lives from 600 to 700 years.

Under average forest conditions it takes more than 100 years to grow a thirty foot cedar pole.

Tulips are very sensitive to the light. During a cloudy day they will sometimes close their petals and not open them until the sunlight returns.

Cottonwood trees are said to grow more rapidly than any other kind of trees in the country. Their average growth is about one-quarter inch a year.

Things Theatrical.

"Secret Service" is being played by the stock companies.

Chauncey Klein, brother of Adelaide Klein, is stage manager of the Bush Temple theatre, in Chicago.

May Buckley will be in the company presenting "Cameo Kirby," of which Dustin Farnum will be the star.

The British censor of plays has forbidden the production of a burlesque on "An Englishman's Home."
